Artemis mission

SLS in a testing phase

NASA (the National Aeronautics and Space Administration) will attempt to bring humans to the moon through a programme called Artemis. The programme will start with a launch into Earth's orbit to test the systems in August of 2022. Then Artemis 2 is where a deep space flyby of the moon will be performed and this will commence in May of 2024. The Artemis program's third mission, the first lunar landing in over 50 years, is scheduled to commence in October of 2024. This will be where two astronauts will perform a series of spacewalks on the moon.

To achieve such a goal, NASA has acquired multiple spacecraft for performing different tasks throughout the missions. SLS stands for Space Launch System and is the largest rocket ever developed. Orion is the crew capsule and will transport the crew from the rocket to Gateway

Gateway is the lunar space station that will act as a platform to transfer from the Orion spacecraft to the HLS. HLS stands for Human Landing System and is the spaceship that will land humans on the moon.

The teams that worked on this project are Airbus, ESA (European Space Agency), SpaceX, Boeing, Lockheed Martin and NASA.

How to make a jubilee crown 👑

By Sophia C, 5P

First, measure the Circumference of your head with a measuring tape, then cut a long even strip of paper about 2cm tall, now attach the ends together.

Now, get your base and cut some strips of paper around half of the size of the base, attach them to the base.

You can now glue together the strips at the top to make the crown shape.

This is optional but I cut a circle out of my excess paper and glued it on top.

Now time to decorate! You can use pens, pencils, paint, gems, sequins and so on to give this regal crown some colour.

Your crown is done so you can now wear it for the queens platinum jubilee with pride.
